Team Approach

Question 1: How well to the team members understand the problem?

Both members clearly understood the main task at hand and deemed it to be feasible for the final project.

Question 2: How are the project tasks achieved?

Project tasks were divided up equally between the two members and neither had any complaints towards this.

Question 3: How did the team approach solving a problem?

Any question or problem would be solved by bringing it up with the other member and picking the most feasible and effective solution that they both saw fit.

Question 4: What approach was taken to solve the problem?

For the project both members wanted to do something they found interesting (Fitness) and from there the parts of the project were chosen based on how unique it would be.

Overall Comments on team approach:

- The overall approach on the project was fun for both members and led to a successful project

Team Coordination of Task Responsibilities

Question 1: How actively did team members take in interest and supported in terms of individual member responsibilities?

Both members were proactive and would happily help with each other with the individual tasks. Every change and question was brought up and individual tasks would be completed while in a call with the other so that ideas/question can be brought up whenever needed.

Question 2: How well did the completion of tasks require active interchanges and sharing of information among members?

The completion of tasks required to have both members share and overlook their individual tasks. Research was done together and ideas/questions would be bounced off one another often.

Question 3: How well did the assignment of tasks to individuals match their expertise?

The assignment of tasks were split up based on both members and their individual strengths and weaknesses. Tasks were not overly emphasized to be done completely alone, both members would work on the tasks based on who was more skilled at the specific task.

Question 4: How well did the team coordinate individual task assignments?

The team worked together on all tasks and input from the other member was used for every task completed. Input from other members was taken and was used quite often.

Overall Comments on team coordination of task responsibilities:

- Both found team coordination to be perfect and no complaints were made
