Facilitator

As a Facilitator, I want a user driven "how to fitness" ui, So that people have something to do in lockdown

Given stay-at-home order/gyms closing, when user wants to workout, Then we provide a fun outlet for home workouts

Developers

As a Developer, I want a clean interface, so that users have an easy experience to navigate

Given that people want a ease of use experience, when the user opens the application, then they will be able to easily surf around the different features

End User

As an end user, I want a macro counter, so that i can keep track of my protein, carb and fat intake

Given that I want to get fit for the summer, When relying on the application for my workout/diet info, Then I should be able to accurately track my macro intake

Customer

As a Customer, I want a method to generate profits, So that the product can continue to run free of charge for our users

Given the current state of businesses due to covid, When launching a new product a guaranteed stream of revenue is needed, then the product can launch with no issues due to funding
